It is insisted in the non-enforcement of liquor laws for various reasons, among which are the opposition of the liquor men, their treachery of officials charged with execution. The policy of the government in licensing the traffic also has a retarding influence on the reform and the failure of the support of the Republican candidates. When the report and resolutions were presented and read, Jackson S. Schultz presented a point of order that it must, under the rules, be referred to a committee. The purpose of this objection was to obtain a postponement of action by securing a refer-

STREET.

Everything is quiet in the police department.

The Grand Army veterans rally at post headquarters this evening.

Captain J. B. Doe will speak to the Cleveland followers in Beloit this evening.

Bowser City Temple No. 3, Patriotic Circle, hold a regular meeting this evening.

The chilly nights have given the coat trade a boom, and our dealers are kept busy filling orders.

The Cleveland and Hendricks club hold a business meeting this evening in their room in the Mitchell block.

John M. Whitbread and Wilson Lano will talk politics to the people of Telford, at the town hall this evening.

Hon. James Sutherland and Rev. Milton Wells will address the republicans at Center town hall this evening.

Major S. S. Rockwood, of the Railroad, will speak on the political issues of the day at Fort Atkinson, this evening.

Prof. W. C. Whitford and Superintendent Wm. Jones will expound republican doctrine this evening at Johnsons Center.

People's Lodge No. 460, I. O. G. T., meet in regular weekly session this evening, in their lodge room, Court street M. E. church block.

Rogers & Hutchinson's painters are at work painting the cornice on the Jackson & Smith block, corner of Main and East Milwaukee street.

The arrangements for the monster republican meeting in this city on Thursday of next week, are progressing very satisfactorily.

Some of our local democrats are showing their appreciation for the services of the prohibitions by wearing St. John pins, and assisting in all prohibitory booms.

Farmers are marketing considerable produce just now, and business is given a little boom thereby. Our business streets present a very lively appearance during the day.

It is expected that our republicans residents will illuminate their business places and residences next Thursday evening, especially those along the line traveled by the procession.

The list of registered voters residing in the first ward of this city, will be found on the third page of this paper. The list for the second ward will be published to-morrow evening.

J. C. Barthol, the republican candidate for the assembly in the third district, and Col. N. Smith, of the Gazette, will talk to the good people of Bradford Center this evening.

Word reaches the city that the German family from New York city, who arrived in this city last summer on foot with their household goods in a small cart, have reached their destination in Medfield, Dakota.

Captain Flury Norcross and Hon. E. Richardson will address the republican club at Oshkosh, this evening. There will be a grand torch light procession previous to the meeting by the Oshkosh and Bradford marching clubs.

All members of the school for the Temperance Wide Awake are requested to meet promptly at a quarter to three o'clock on Saturday afternoon, at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, to help in the arrangement of a plan for an entertainment to be given in a short time.

It is quietly whispered that the democrats are arranging for another immense demonstration in this city before election. An enthusiastic Cleveland man opposite the west side "town pump," informed us this morning that if the republicans turned up 5000 on Thursday next, they would stop to the front with 5000, if they had to send to Kentucky for reinforcements.

The members of W. H. Sargent Post No. 20, G. A. R., will hold their first social dance of the season at their hall, on Saturday evening October 11th. Koss and members and their families will be admitted on account of room. They intend to give an invitation dance on October 20th, on their third anniversary due notice of which will be given through the daily press.

There will be an exciting race at the fair grounds to-morrow afternoon between the four-year old colts which took part in the race last Saturday at the county fair, belonging respectively to Messrs. James Van Elta, H. D. McKinney, Dr. Coakley and George Doubleday. The owner of each colt puts up fifty dollars, and the best one takes the cash. It will be one of the best races ever witnessed on the Janesville track.

An immense crowd was in attendance at Burr Robbins' show both morning and evening on Tuesday, and so far as we could learn, everybody was well pleased. The exhibition of animals was pretty fair, and the circus feats of the ring were excellent, many of them being entirely new. People were in from the country for many miles around, and the receipts at the ticket wagon run up to a large sum. Our business relations with the show, were very pleasant, and we hope they may visit Allouez again. Our merchants had a good trade that day, and business in general receded quite a little boom. —Allouez (Ohio) Leader.

Janesville, Wednesday, October 15th, at afternoon and evening.

Mr. W. G. Crowley, who started out with the Burr Robbins advance last spring as press agent, was obliged to leave the road about the middle of August on account of ill health. He returned to his home in Rochester, New York, where he died, Saturday, October 4th, of consumption. Mr. Crowley was a gentleman who made many warm personal friends, and by his kindly disposition won his way to the hearts of all with whom he was associated. The Gazette is indebted to Mr. Geo. K. Steel, of the Burr Robbins company, for the above notice. Mr. Steel was associated with Mr. Crowley during the early part of the season, and they were also together with the Forepaugh show during the season of 1881-2.

At the present time there is but very little betting in the vicinity on the result of the presidential election. Now and then a "bluffer" appears, offering to bet on this and that state, but as a rule no money is put up. This morning an enthusiastic democrat was on the street, growing in eloquent speech at what he claimed the bright prospects for their party, when of a sudden republican tapped him on the shoulder at the same time remarking, "I'll put up one thousand dollars with you, that Blaine is the next president of the United States; if that son of not enough just step over to the bank and I'll make it three thousand, to accommodate you." The democrat had nothing more to say, and concluded that he had no money to put up on the general result.

THE PROHIBITIONISTS.

Mr. John M. Olin, of Madison, Tells What He Knows About Prohibition.

And the Democratic Party Refuse.

An audience composed of about one hundred and fifty democrats, fifty republicans and a few prohibitionists, was found in Lappa's hall last evening. Rev. S. Lugg presided, and introduced to the audience Mr. John M. Olin, of Madison, as the speaker of the evening. Mr. Olin talked for two hours on temperance, and twenty-five minutes on personal abuse of Blaine and the republican party. The temperance part of the speech was good, and while it covered much familiar ground that has been canvassed in the interest of temperance from the pulpits and platforms for the past twenty-five years, yet the speaker handled the question in a manner that convinced the audience of his ability as an orator and also convinced them of the fact of his honesty of motive.

If he had been wise enough to close at the end of his temperance speech the effort would have been pronounced masterly by the better element of all parties composing his audience, but when he came down from his high moral standard and commenced a tirade of abuse against the republican party in general and James G. Blaine in particular, the democrats cheered him to the echo and did not hesitate to say at the close that they were perfectly satisfied with the effort. If the prohibitionists are short of campaign funds it will pay them to pass around the hat among their allies in the democratic party.

ORITARY.

GAIL F. CARLSON.

Shortly after midnight last night, Mr. Carl F. Carlson, who had been confined to his home on North Main street, since Monday, from a severe attack of typhoid pneumonia, quietly fell asleep, and his soul departed beyond the dark valley, aged fifty-nine years. The deceased was a native of Norway, born at Christianshavn, he came to the United States in 1857, first settling at Lake Mills, and shortly thereafter removing with his family to this city, where he resided until his death. He was a moulder by trade, and for many years was employed by the Doty Co., and the Janesville Machine company, until the Bower City Brass and Iron works company was organized, of which he was one of the organizers. Deceased was twice married, and leaves, besides his second wife, five children, four girls and one boy, Mrs. R. H. Morris, Misses J. Ella and Edna, and Mr. Nels Carlsson, and a large circle of friends to mourn his death. The funeral will take place on Sunday, at the house, 86 North Main street, at 2:30 o'clock p. m. Rev. W. F. Brown, of the Presbyterian church, conducting the services.

The best on earth, can truly be said of Grogg's Glycerine Salve, in a cure for cuts, bruises, scalds, burns, wounds and all other sores. Will positively cure piles, tetter and all skin eruptions. Try this wonder healer. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Only 25 cents. Sold by Sterns & Baker.

The wedding of Miss Margaret E. Granger and Herbert D. Sykes.

The bride is the oldest daughter of S. W. Granger, the well-known attorney, and is a beautiful and charming young lady, exceedingly popular among the young people of the outside. The groom was formerly a resident of Janesville, but has recently established himself in the drug business at Pewaukee. He is spoken of by those who know him as a young man of sterling character and more than ordinary ability and attainments. The church was appropriately trimmed for the occasion, the organ being adorned with greenery and the pulpit platform being fairly covered with stands of colorful flowers. C. N. Kendall, C. W. Waite and Frank Knowles, of this city, and E. D. McGowan, of Janesville, acted as ushers. Miss Campbell presided at the organ. Precisely as the clocks of the city began striking twelve the wedding party entered the church. The bride and groom walked together, and were preceded and followed by two ushers. The bride was simply attired in a light brown traveling costume. She wore a hat with a pink plume and a carriage bouquet of white flowers, and looked very pretty. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. M. G. Hodges, of Janesville, a former pastor of the Jefferson Street Baptist church. After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, on Jackson street. Mr. and Mrs. Sykes departed this afternoon on a wedding trip to the south and east. Their residence in the future will be at Pewaukee.

It is not the men of superior talents who do the great work of the world; it is the men who have trained their working powers the best. Many who possess enviable talents sometimes become idle, dreamers in the way of others, all the way of well-studied habits of industry, and a fixed purpose in life. They have resolved to do the best they can in the world, and are doing it with their might, need not pause to look round for results. There will be time and opportunity for that in eternity.

Ammonia in Baking Powders.

Scientific American.
Among the recent discoveries in science and chemistry, none is more important than the use of which common ammonia can be properly put to use in leavening bread. It is a fact that this familiar salt is hereafter to perform an active part in the preparation of our daily food.

The carbonate of ammonia is an exceedingly volatile substance. Place a small portion of it upon a knife and hold it over a flame, and it will almost immediately be entirely developed into gas and pass off into the air. The gas thus formed is a simple compound of nitrogen and hydrogen. No residue is left from the ammonia. This gives it its superiority as a leavening power over soda and cream of tartar used alone, and has induced its use as a supplement to these articles. A small quantity of ammonia in the dough, is effective in producing bread that will be lighter, sweeter and more wholesome than that risen by any other leavening agent. When it is acted upon by the heat of baking the leavening gas that raises the dough is liberated. In this act it uses itself up as it were; the ammonia is entirely diffused, leaving no trace or residue whatever. The light, fluffy, bakery appearance so desirable in biscuits, etc., and so sought after by professional cooks, is due to the use of this agent.

The bakers and baking powder manufacturers producing the finest goods have been quick to avail themselves of this useful discovery, and the household and hotel bread and cake are now largely risen by the aid of ammonia, combined, of course, with other leavening material.

Ammonia is one of the best known products of the laboratory. It is so common that it is justly called for its application of its properties to the purposes of cooking, results in giving us lighter and more wholesome bread, biscuit or cake. It will prove a boon to dyspeptic humanity, and will speedily force itself to general use at the new field to which science has assigned it.

The silent influences of life are by far the greatest. We do not know at what moment we are stamping the character and coloring the whole future life of our associates by our voiceless example, or by our most unmeditated words.

A word, a look, which at one time makes no impression, at another time wounds the heart, and like a stab, flying with the wind, pierces deep into the soul, and our nature, poor, would hardly have reached the object aimed at.

The Goat and the Tiger.

(Detroit Free Press.)
A Goat and a Tiger having been made prisoners in the same Pittail, the Goat remarked:

"It would seem wise to Pool our Issues against the Common Enemy. I'll Agree not to Eat you if you'll Agree not to Eat me."

The Tiger readily Agreed, and by great good Fortune the matter seemed to be settled. They were Scarcely out of the Pit, however, when the Tiger seized the Goat and Prepared to Crush him.

"Hold! Did we not have a solemn Agreement?"

"Exactly, but what a Tiger Agrees in a Pittail does not hold good when he reaches the surface."

Moral: There isn't any to speak of, except that the Goat should have eaten the Tiger down in the Pit and Trusted to Luck to Escape Afterwards.

Remarkable Deer Park of a Tennessee.

(Chicago Herald.)
There are now 350 deer in Gen. Harding's park, six miles from Nashville, Tenn. Notwithstanding the Harding family's love for venison and the large number of friends frequently supplied with the delicacy, the herd is steadily increasing. At the war it numbered about sixty head. The park has 450 acres and has many foxes within its bounds. Gen. Harding, now 90 years old, possesses a grand farm of 4,700 acres.

Fishing with a Balloon.

(Albany Journal.)
A charming young lady of Albany visiting friends at Malone, recently sent a toy balloon to which she attached a cork bearing the name and the famous inscription: "I am a good-looking young bachelor or widow and his wife will please return it." The balloon, after a week's absence, was found near Pittsford by a young farmer. He returned it with his compliments and his photograph.

Wanted Dry-Staff.

(Exchange.)
A little girl being sent to a shop to purchase some dry-staff, and forgetting the name of the article, said to the shopman: "What do you folks dry with?" "Dye with! Why, cholera, sometimes," replied the shopman. "Well, I believe that's the name. I want to have three penny-worth."

He will give us some statistics that may be of great interest to those contemplating raising it next year for the first time.

HENRY TARRANT, Secretary.

Chips.

After all, territory is but the body of a nation. The people who inhabit its hills and valleys are its soul, its spirit, its life. In them dwell its hope of immortality. Among them, if anywhere, are to be found its chief elements of destruction.

Time is among the principal of Heaven's gifts. It far transcends in importance and value most of the gifts we possess. How momentous is it, then, that we should have enlightened views of the nature and value of this precious gift. Do not squander it in doing so you embarrass those upon whom you bestow praise, as they may not wish to offend you by repelling it, and yet they realize that if they accept it they merit your contempt. Xerxes may, however, commend their work whenever you can truthfully do so; but do not bestow praise where it is not deserved.

A man once took a piece of white cloth to a dyer, to have it dyed black. He was so pleased with the result that he took it home and put it back to the dyer with a piece of black cloth, and asked to have it dyed white. But the dyer answered, "A piece of cloth is like a man's reputation; it can be dyed black, but it cannot be made white again."

Do not indulge in satire. No doubt you are witty, and can say a good deal of things that would bring the laugh of the company down on your opponent, but you must not allow it, unless to rebuke some important fellow who can be suppressed in no other way.

Do not aspire to be a great story-teller; an incoherent teller of long stories becomes very tiresome. To tell one or two witty, short, new stories, appropriate to the occasion, is about all that one person should inflict on the company.
